Because you want to withdrawal your retirement savings and you need to tell Alexforbes what to do with your money.

Important:

Before you make any decision regarding your retirement savings it is important know how much you have in your vested, savings and retirement pots. You can view the values of your different pots online here (<https://online.alexforbes.com/home>), or you can discuss this with your financial adviser.

What are my options?

1. Transfer

Transfer your money to an approved fund with the option to take a small cash portion.

How does this impact me?

- Transfers to another fund are tax free.

2. Withdraw all your benefits

This option allows you to take cash up to the legal limits.

If you cash in your retirement savings now, this may negatively impact your retirement outcome and you may need to pay tax.

Understanding the limitations of your choices for each pot

Vested pot

If you take a cash withdrawal from your vested pot, the balance of your vested pot must be transferred to another fund.

Savings pot

- If you have not withdrawn from your savings pot in the current tax year, you are allowed to withdraw all, or a part of your savings pot.
- If you have withdrawn from your savings pot in the current tax year, and your balance is less than R2 000, you are allowed to withdraw your full savings pot.
- If you have withdrawn from your savings pot in the current tax year, and your balance is more than R2 000, you are not allowed to withdraw anything from your savings pot until the next tax year.

Retirement pot

You are not permitted to access your retirement pot until you retire. You therefore cannot take a full cash withdrawal.

Additional notes

- If you want to transfer to another approved fund, any portion of your different pots which is not withdrawn in cash needs to be transferred together to the same fund. You cannot transfer each pot to a different fund.
- Any 37D deductions (e.g. divorce order, maintenance order, etc.) will be deducted proportionately from the vested, savings and retirement pots.
